

Women's, Gender, and Sexuality

PennState

Studies Department

Coffee Hour Talk

COLLEGE
OF THE LIBERAL
ARTS

Panel Discussion:

“Feminist Art and Activism on Campus: A Transnational Discussion”

Play performed by PSU students and students from the University of the Western Cape in South Africa, who will be traveling from South Africa to Penn State for this performance!

Friday, October 2 nd :	FREE!	Saturday, October 3 rd :
Doors open: 7pm	FREE!	Doors open: 2pm
Showtime: 7:30pm	FREE!	Showtime: 2:30pm
Venue: State Theater		Venue: HUB, Heritage Hall

Work written and originally performed by students, faculty and staff at the University of the Western Cape in South Africa. Confronts the demeaning words for women's bodies that are commonly used as insults, distort gender relations and normalize the public denigration of women, and creates new ways of envisioning women's bodies and power.

Featuring Penn State and the University of the Western Cape student performers from the play “Reclaiming the P...Word” with:

Co-directors:

Mary Hames, Director of the Gender Equity Unit, University of the Western Cape, South Africa

Kikora Franklin, Associate Professor of Theatre/Dance, School of Theatre, Penn State

Chaired by Anya Wallace, PhD Candidate in Art Education and Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies

Nawal Qureshi, President of TRIOTA (Women's Studies Honors Society)

Co-sponsored by the Department of Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies, TRIOTA (Women's Studies Honors Society), and the African Feminist Initiative.

September 30, 2015

160 Willard Building

6:00 p.m.